The object was to try to work out in class room practice the more recent theories of elementary education under normal conditions, as to number of pupils, class room space, and teaching force. Complete freedom was given in the selection of class room materials, in the use and division of class time, and in the employment of special teachers. Children whose parents approved of the experiment were selected to compose the group. According to intelligence tests, these children were not superior to the average of their classmates in a parallel division. Moreover, on the average, they were younger than the children of the other group. Thus the Experimental Class was started with the prospect of remaining under the guidance of one teacher for at least three years. The experience of this class and its teachers...
