Chapter 1 Introduction Further, 1. 5 million Americans are expected to suffer a heart attack in 1994. The death rate from heart attack in the United States, however, 2 Reasons cited as contributing declined 32 percent between 1981 and 1991. to this decline include improved medical care of patients and preventive 3 measures in the population. AHA estimates that total costs associated with coronary heart disease are 56. 3 billion per year. Of this figure, 37. 2 billion is spent on hospital and nursing home services, 8. 7 billion on physicians and nurses services, and 2. 4 billion on drugs. Lost output associated with heart disease is valued at 4 8 billion. Because of the large sums being spent on treatment, to say nothing of the attendant psychological and social costs, prevention has been emphasized. NHLBI NCEP has established several education programs, such as, to inform the public about different risk factors associated with coronary heart disease...
